MARIA'S STORY:

Maria, a single mother working at Publix, has faced relentless challenges and difficult decisions. When her daycare options collapsed, she stepped down from her management role, sacrificing income for flexible hours to care for her child. The loss of stability pushed her into financial struggle as she fell behind on car payments, insurance, and daycare fees. Even in the face of these setbacks, she continued to show up every day, determined to provide for her family. Yet Maria's story is also one of resilience, and with the support of her community and organizations like United Way, she is finding hope and building a path toward stability and a brighter future.
